Just a Little Run Around the World Rosie Swale Pope 2009 "Heartbroken when she lost her husband to cancer, Rosie set off from Wales with nothing but a small cart of food and equipment, funded by the her little cottage. So began a five-year solo journey that would take Rosie 20,000 miles around the w memory of the man she loved. Followed by wolves, knocked down by a bus, confronted by bears, chas naked man with a gun and stranded with severe frostbite, Rosie's gripping story is a rollercoaster adv epic proportions." -- Back cover.

Lost Libraries. Raven 2004-01-31 This pioneering volume of essays explores the destruction of great libraries since ancient times and examines the intellectual, political and cultural consequences of loss.
Fourteen original contributions, introduced by a major re-evaluative history of lost libraries, offer the f comparative discussion of the greatest catastrophes in book history from Mesopotamia and Alexandri dispersal of monastic and monarchical book collections, the Nazi destruction of Jewish libraries, and th recent horrifying pillage and burning of books in Tibet, Bosnia and Iraq.

Life After Life Kate Atkinson 2013-04-02 What if you could live again and again, until you got it right? cold and snowy night in 1910, Ursula Todd is born to an English banker and his wife. She dies before s draw her first breath. On that same cold and snowy night, Ursula Todd is born, lets out a lusty wail, a embarks upon a life that will be, to say the least, unusual. For as she grows, she also dies, repeatedly, variety of ways, while the young century marches on towards its second cataclysmic world war. Does apparently infinite number of lives give her the power to save the world from its inevitable destiny? A can -- will she? Darkly comic, startlingly poignant, and utterly original -- this is Kate Atkinson at her ab best.

Dare to Tr Louise Minchin 2018-05-03 SHORTLISTED FOR THE TELEGRAPH SPORTS HEALTH &

FITNESS BOOK OF THE YEAR AWARD 2019 RUNNING AWARDS 2019 – TOP BOOK Dare to Tri is the amazing story of TV presenter Louise Minchin's journey from the BBC Breakfast sofa to representing Great Britain at the World Triathlon Championships. This is a warmly written and wonderfully honest adventure through-sport that will both entertain and inspire. 'I didn't even know what a triathlon was before 2008. When I took up the sport three years ago I didn't imagine for a second then, that, one day, I would be representing my country internationally.' Louise Minchin What started out as a fun television cycling stunt, culminated in BBC Breakfast's Louise Minchin wearing the colours of Great Britain at the World Triathlon Championships in her age group. This is the story of how a newly discovered sport became a passion, then an obsession. Dare to Tri is Louise's candid memoir of her incredible journey, recounting her rediscovery of competitive sport after nearly 30 years and her first tentative steps as a triathlete. In a story encompassing equal measures of determination and self-doubt, Louise has to overcome personal nerves, a brutal training regime, the odd bike crash and the occasional drama. Her adventure as she strives to represent Great Britain at triathlon is an inspiration for sporting late-starters everywhere.

Mistress James Patterson 2013-08-05 Discover a dangerous world of manipulation, obsession, and murder in James Patterson's scary, sexy standalone thriller. Ben isn't like most people. Unable to control his racing thoughts, he's a man consumed by his obsessions: movies, motorcycles, presidential trivia-and Diana Hotchkiss, a beautiful woman Ben knows he can never have. When Diana is found dead outside her apartment, Ben's infatuation drives him on a hunt to find out what happened to the love of his life. He discovers that the woman he pined for was hiding a shocking secret. And now someone is out to stop him from uncovering the truth about Diana's illicit affairs. In his most heart-pumping thriller yet, James Patterson plunges us into the depths of a mind tortured by paranoia and obsession, on an action-packed chase through a world of danger and deceit.

The Journeying Moon Ernle Bradford 2014-04-01 A memoir of life as an adventurer and sailor in the Mediterranean, by the noted naval historian. Ernle Bradford spent his twenty-first birthday in Egypt, serving the Royal Navy during World War II. It was there that he came across the profoundly affecting words of Chekhov: "Life does not come again; if you have not lived during the days that were given to you, once they are gone, then write it down as lost." After the war, Bradford married and settled in London, but the mandate of those words inspired him and his wife to quit their jobs, sell their home, and sail to France in their small ship, the Goose. The Journeying Moon chronicles their adventures as they travel through Europe and the Mediterranean. From the people of Malta who believed Bradford was a spy from MI5, to his interactions with the Sicilian Mafia, Bradford tells the charming and vivid tale of his days as a true adventurer.

The Film Appreciation Book Jim Piper 2014-11-18 This is a book for cinephiles, pure and simple. Author and filmmaker, Jim Piper, shares his vast knowledge of film and analyzes the most striking components of the movies ever made. From directing to cinematography, from editing and music to symbolism and plot development, The Film Appreciation Book covers hundreds of the greatest works in cinema, combining technical knowledge, and the art of enjoyment to explain why some movies have become the most treasured and entertaining works ever available to the public, and why these movies continue to amaze viewers decades of notoriety. Read about such classic cinematic masterpieces as Citizen Kane, Gandhi, Midnight Cowboy, Easy Rider, True Grit, Gone With the Wind, and The Wizard of Oz, as well as more recent accomplishments in feature films, such as Requiem for a Dream, Munich, The King's Speech, and The Hurt Locker. Piper breaks down his analysis for you and points out aspects of production that movie-lovers (and devoted ones) would never recognize on their own. This book will endlessly fascinate, and by the time you reach the last chapter, you're ready to start all over again. In-depth analysis and thoughtful and wide-ranging choices from every period of cinema history will ensure that you never tire of this reading companion. The Willpower Instinct Kelly McGonigal 2013-12-31 Based on Stanford University psychologist Kelly McGonigal's wildly popular course "The Science of Willpower," The Willpower Instinct is the first book to explain the science of self-control and how it can be harnessed to improve our health, happiness, and productivity. Informed by the latest research and combining cutting-edge insights from psychology, economics, neuroscience, and medicine, The Willpower Instinct explains exactly what willpower is, how it works, and why it matters. For example, readers will learn: • Willpower is a mind-body response, not a virtue. It is a biological function that can be improved through mindfulness, exercise, nutrition, and sleep. • Willpower is not an unlimited resource. Too much self-control can actually be bad for your health. • Temptation and stress weaken the brain's systems of self-control, but the brain can be trained for greater willpower • Guilt and shame about your setbacks lead to giving in again, but self-forgiveness and self-compassion boost self-control. • Giving up self-control is sometimes the only way to gain self-control. • Willpower failures are contagious—you can catch a desire to overspend or overeat from your friends—but you can also catch self-control from the right people. In the groundbreaking tradition of Getting Things Done, The Willpower Instinct combines life-changing prescriptive advice and complementary exercises to help readers with goals ranging from losing weight to patient parenting, less procrastination, better health, and greater productivity at work.

Making up Numbers: A History of Invention in Mathematics Frank R. Kopp 2020-10-23 Making up Numbers: A History of Invention in Mathematics offers a detailed but accessible account of a wide range of mathematical ideas. Starting with elementary concepts, it leads the reader towards aspects of current mathematical research. The book explains how conceptual hurdles in the development of numbers and mathematical systems were overcome in the course of history, from Babylon to Classical Greece, from the Middle Ages to the Renaissance, and so to the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The narrative moves from the Pythagorean insistence on positive multiples to the gradual acceptance of negative numbers, irrationals and complex numbers as essential tools in quantitative analysis. Within this chronological framework, chapters are organised thematically, covering a variety of topics and contexts: writing and solving equations, geometric construction, coordinates and complex numbers, perceptions of 'infinity' and its permissible uses in mathematics, number systems, and evolving views of the role of axioms. Through this approach, the book demonstrates that changes in our understanding of numbers have often relied on the breaking of long-standing conventions to make way for new inventions at once providing greater clarity and widening mathematical horizons. Viewed from this historical perspective, mathematical abstraction emerges as neither mysterious nor immutable, but as a contingent, developing human activity. Making up Numbers will be of great interest to undergraduate and A-level students of mathematics, as well as secondary school teachers of the subject. In virtue of its detailed treatment of mathematical ideas, it will be of value to anyone seeking to learn more about the development of the subject.

Poverty Safari Darren McGarvey 2020-09-15 The international bestseller and Orwell Prize winner: "One of the best accounts of working-class life I have read." —The Guardian Many observers—especially those who have never experienced poverty—struggle to understand such phenomena as Brexit and Donald Trump, or the connection between poverty and the rise of tribalism in the UK, in the US, and around the world. Darren McGarvey has experienced poverty and its devastations firsthand. He grew up in a community where cash was a form of currency and has lived through addiction, abuse, and homelessness. He knows why people in deprived communities feel angry and unheard. And he wants to explain. So he invites you on a safari of sorts—but not the kind where the wildlife is surveyed from a safe distance. His visceral and cogently argued book—part memoir, part polemic—takes us inside the experience of extreme poverty to show how the poor really feel and how hard their legacy is to overcome. Arguing that both the left and right misunderstand poverty as it is actually lived, McGarvey sets forth what everybody—including himself—could do to change things. Razor-sharp, fearless, and brutally honest, Poverty Safari offers unforgettable insight into conditions in modern Britain—and into issues of inequality, tribalism, cultural anxiety, identity politics, the poverty industry, and the resentment, anger, and feelings of exclusion and being left behind that have fueled right-wing populism and the rise of ethno-nationalism. "[McGarvey offers] what he calls an 'emotional reality' about poverty and deprivation that is rarely captured by statistics." —The New York Times "Solid, original reporting on class inequality." —Kirkus Reviews "Poverty Safari challenges the left as well as the right." —The Irish Times "A painfully honest autobiographical study [and] a bracing contribution to the debate about how to fix our economic and political problems." —Financial Times LimitlessMimi Anderson 2021-03-11 An honest and inspiring account of one woman's unstoppable endurance in the face of seemingly insurmountable setbacks Don't limit your challenges. Challenge your limits. At the age of 55, record-breaking ultrarunner Mimi Anderson embarked on her most ambitious adventure yet. She wanted to become the fastest woman in history to run across America from Los Angeles to New York. Her journey would cover 2,850 miles, 12 states and four time zones, dealing with extreme in terrain, weather and altitude along the way. For 40 days, the determined mother of three pushed her and on for more than 2,000 miles across the vast continent, despite the onset of severe pain, until she was forced to make a crushing decision: carry on and risk never being able to run again or give up on her goal. What happened next set Mimi on a new, unexpected journey. She learned to face her fears and bounce back from defeat by taking up the new challenge of becoming a triathlete. Mimi's inspiring story proves that when one door closes, another opens - you just need the courage to swim, cycle and run through it.

After VirtueAlasdair MacIntyre 2013-10-21 Highly controversial when it was first published in 1981, Alasdair MacIntyre's After Virtue has since established itself as a landmark work in contemporary moral philosophy. In this book, MacIntyre sought to address a crisis in moral language that he traced back to a European Enlightenment that had made the formulation of moral principles increasingly difficult. In the search for a way out of this impasse, MacIntyre returns to an earlier strand of ethical thinking, that of Aristotle, who emphasised the importance of 'virtue' to the ethical life. More than thirty years after its original publication, After Virtue remains a work that is impossible to ignore for anyone interested in our understanding of ethics and morality today.

Arc of JusticeKevin Boyle 2007-04-01 An electrifying story of the sensational murder trial that divided the nation and ignited the civil rights struggle In 1925, Detroit was a smoky swirl of jazz and speakeasies, assemblies and fistfights. The advent of automobiles had brought workers from around the globe to compete for manufacturing jobs, and tensions often flared with the KKK in ascendance and violence rising. Ossian Sweet, a proud Negro doctor-grandson of a slave-had made the long climb from the ghetto to a home of his own in a previously all-white neighborhood. Yet just after his arrival, a mob gathered outside his house; suddenly they rang out: Sweet, or one of his defenders, had accidentally killed one of the whites threatening their lives and homes. And so it began-a chain of events that brought America's greatest attorney, Clarence Darrow, to the fray and transformed Sweet into a controversial symbol of equality. Historian Kevin Boyle weaves the investigation and courtroom drama of Sweet's murder trial into an unforgettable tapestry of narrative that documents the volatile America of the 1920s and movingly re-creates the Sweet family's journey from slavery through the Great Migration to the middle class. Ossian Sweet's story, so richly and poignantly captured here, is an epic tale of one man trapped by the battles of his era's changing times. Arc of Justice is the winner of the 2004 National Book Award for Nonfiction.

10 10 10Aura Bird 2020-11-26 Inspirational memoir of Laura 'Birdy' Bird who, 10 years after learning to walk again following a suicide attempt, completed 10 marathons in 10 days to raise money for the people who saved her life.

Running Through the WallsNeal Jamison 2014-04-30 WHAT'S IT LIKE TO RUN FOR 30, 50, OR 100 MILES? This book is a great inspiration not only to current ultrarunners, and to marathoners looking for their next challenge—but also to runners of all abilities, who will see that there is nothing you can't do if you have the desire. What makes ultrarunners tick? What goes through their minds at mile 93? How can you train for such a colossal undertaking? These questions and many more are answered in this inspiring collection of personal stories from ultramarathoners. Ultramarathoning is the logical next step for those who burn desire to explore their limits, and beyond. It is impossible to run ultra distances without coming away with at least one fascinating story. This book is full of them. There are stories of fatigue, blisters, nausea, and pain. But the ultrarunner prevails to find hope, love, healing, self-discovery, friendship, selflessness, and in the end, for most, triumph. Learn what it feels like to run an ultra from the champions, the newcomers, and the veterans of the sport. A few brief excerpts: "I left Edinburg witnessing my second sunrise on this run." —Keith Knippling "It would be hours before we'd see the first aid station, and probably close to two days before we'd have dry feet again!" —Deb Pero "I'm 95 miles into a 100-miler, it's over 100 degrees out, my leg is shot, I'm a few scant minutes ahead of Ann and Gabriel, and my pacer is stopped dead in the trail for no reason. Skunk?" —Tim Twietmeyer "Ultrarunning is without question the most feared aspect of adventure racing." —Ian Adamson "The urge to quit right there was overwhelming, but I was still in the race. Perhaps a miracle would happen and I could get in under the four hours it would take to make the next cutoff. I thanked the station captain and plunged into the darkness." —Will Brown "It was time to put all the viable excuses behind me and look inside." —Tracy Baldyga "I think I quit about 20 times during the race, mostly between the time the sun went down and the time that I finally walked away. Reality sets in when it gets dark. The trail gets dark." —Jason Hodde "During every race you are faced with a moment of truth, a point in the race when you must decide to quit or persevere to the end. Every person who finishes an ultramarathon has accomplished a great feat because they finished." —Bethany Hunter

The Grand Budapest Hotel Wes Anderson 2014-03-04 (Book). The Grand Budapest Hotel recounts the adventures of Gustave H (Ralph Fiennes), a legendary concierge at a famous European hotel between the wars, and Zero Moustafa (Tony Revolori), the lobby boy who becomes his most trusted friend. Acting as a father figure, M. Gustave leads the resourceful Zero on a journey that involves the theft and recovery of a priceless Renaissance painting; the battle for an enormous family fortune; a desperate chase on motor cars, trains, sledges and skis; and the sweetest confection of a love affair all against the backdrop of a succumbingly and dramatically changing Continent. Inspired by the writings of Stefan Zweig, The Grand Budapest Hotel recreates a bygone era through its arresting visuals and sparkling dialogue. The charm and vibrant color of the film gradually darken with a sense of melancholy as the forces of history conspire against our heroes and their vanishing way of life. Written and directed by Wes Anderson, whose films include The Royal Tenenbaums, Moonrise Kingdom, and Fantastic Mr. Fox. The film also stars Jude Law, Tilda Swinton, Edward Norton, Jeff Goldblum, Harvey Keitel, Adrian Brody, Saoirse Ronan, Lea Seydoux, Bill Murray and Owen Wilson.

Running The World Nick Butter 2020-11-12 'Superb - a great book to fuel your wanderlust.' Mark Beaumont --- In 2019, Nick Butter became the first person to run a marathon in every country on Earth. This is the story of his world record-breaking adventure and the extraordinary people who joined him along the way. On January 6th 2018, Nick Butter tied his laces and stepped out on to an icy pavement in Toronto, where he was to take the first steps of an epic journey that would see him run 196 marathons in every one of the world's countries. Spending almost two years on the road and relying on the kindness of strangers to keep him going, Nick's odyssey allowed him to travel slowly, on foot, immersing himself in the diverse cultures and customs of his host nations. Running through capital cities and deserts, around islands and through spectacular landscapes, Nick dodges bullets in Guinea-Bissau, crosses battlefields in Syria, survives a wild dog attack in Tunisia and runs around an erupting volcano in Guatemala. Along the way, he is often joined by local supporters and fellow runners, curious children and bemused passers-by. Telling their stories alongside his own, Nick captures the unique spirit of each place he visits and forges a new relationship with the world around him. Running the World captures Nick's journey as he sets three world records and covers over 10,000 miles. As he recounts his adventures, he shares his unique perspective on our glorious planet, celebrates the diversity of human experience, and reflects on the overwhelming power of running.

In It for the Long Run Damian Hall 2021-05-06 We Can't Run Away From This, the new book by bestselling author Damian Hall, is now available for pre-order. In It for the Long Run is ultrarunner Damian Hall's story of his Pennine Way record attempt in July 2020. In July 1989, Mike Hartley set the Fastest Known Time record for the Pennine Way, running Britain's oldest National Trail in a little over two days and seventy hours. He didn't stop to sleep, but did break for fifteen minutes for fish and chips. Hartley's record stood for thirty-one years, until two attempts were made on it in two weeks in the summer of 2020. First, Amy Kelly broke Hartley's record by less than an hour, then Hall knocked another two hours off Kelly's time. Hall used his record attempt to highlight environmental issues: his attempt was carbon negative, he used biodegradable gear, and he and his pacing runners collected litter as they went, while also raising money for Greenpeace. Hall used no animal products on his attempt. Scrawled on his arm in permanent marker was 'FFF', signifying the three things that matter most to him: Family, Friends, Future. Packed with dry wit and humor, In It for the Long Run tells of Hall's four-year preparation for his attempt, and of the run itself. He also gives us an autobiographical insight into the deranged world of midlife crisis ultramarathon running and record attempts.

The Housekeeper and the Professor Yoko Ogawa 2009-02-03 Yoko Ogawa's The Housekeeper and the Professor is an enchanting story about what it means to live in the present, and about the curious connections that can create a family. He is a brilliant math Professor with a peculiar problem—ever since a traumatic brain injury, he has lived with only eighty minutes of short-term memory. She is an astute young Housekeeper with a ten-year-old son—who is hired to care for the Professor. And every morning, as the Professor and the Housekeeper are introduced to each other anew, a strange and beautiful relationship blossoms between them. Though he cannot hold memories for long (his brain is like a tape that begins to erase itself every eighty minutes), the Professor's mind is still alive with elegant equations from the past. And the numbers, in their articulate order, reveal a sheltering and poetic world to both the Housekeeper and her young son. The Professor is capable of discovering connections between the simplest of quantities—like the Housekeeper's age and the size—and the universe at large, drawing their lives ever closer and more profoundly together, even as his memory slips away.

Mental Training for Ultrarunning Addie J. Bracy 2021-05-21 It's no secret that if you plan to run in the toughest endurance races, you need to physically prepare for the extreme demands you will be subjected to. But successful runners will be quick to note that physical preparation is only part of the equation. You need to be mentally strong to withstand, and overcome, the challenges of this grueling sport. That's where Mental Training for Ultrarunning comes in. Sport psychology consultant Addie Bracy has coached and provided mental performance consulting to elite athletes in many sports, and she herself has been a competitive distance runner for more than two decades. In Mental Training for Ultrarunning, she combines her first-hand coaching and running experience, along with profiles of ultrarunners who've experienced the highs and lows of the sport, to explain what you need to know and practice in order to cross that finish line. In this book, you will learn tools and techniques to help you prepare for and overcome some of the biggest mental and physical challenges you may encounter in ultrarunning. You'll find more than 35 practical activities that will guide you in taking an introspective look at your own potential roadblocks so you can develop and strengthen the mental skills you need to run with confidence. Whether you're training for your first ultra or looking to compete at the elite level, this book is your go-to resource for mental training.

level, Mental Training for Ultrarunning will prepare you for the good, the bad, and the worst experience you might encounter on the trail, road, or track. With expert guidance from athletes who have seen it all, you will learn how to train your mind and anticipate all the variables that could keep you from achieving your ultrarunning goals.

Marathon Mum Rachel Brown 2021-03-04 'It's the finish line, not the finish time.' In the late 80s, our heroine was having a boss time as a podium dancer at the Pleasuredrome, Birkenhead. Fast forward several years and she's married, with the kids she's always dreamed of, but the body she's always dreaded. To make things worse, her husband Trevor begins to show his true controlling colours and Rachel blames herself, spiralling into depression. Until she discovers running. Buzzing from her epiphany, the 'Forrest Gump of the Mersey' is derided by Trevor, but catches the attention of some local women, all struggling and vulnerable in their own ways. These disparate women persuade Rachel to lead them in a running club, to get a bit of whatever she can where they all discover more than the mere chance to shed a few pounds in this burgeoning sisterhood. Dealing with the dark and many faces of depression with a refreshing lightness of touch unique to this working class woman from the Wirral, Marathon Mum is an uplifting story of the healing to be found in community and the corners we can turn when we push ourselves across the line.

Ice Cream Social Brad Edmondson 2014-01-06 "For more than three decades, Ben & Jerry's has been committed to an insanely ambitious three-part mission: not just making the world's best ice cream but also supporting progressive causes and sharing its success with all stakeholders--employees, suppliers, distributors, customers, cows, everybody. Living up to these beliefs is fun when you're doing it right, and it creates an amazingly loyal customer base, but it isn't easy. This is the first book to tell the full, inside story of the ins and outs, rise, tragic mistakes, devastating fall, determined recovery, and ongoing renewal of one of the most iconic mission-driven companies in the world. No previous book has focused so intently on the challenges presented by staying true to the mission as the business grew. No other book has explained how the company could be sold to Unilever, one of the world's biggest corporations. And none has described the unprecedented deal Ben & Jerry's negotiated with Unilever to preserve the three-part mission or the complex working relationship that has allowed the company to pursue that mission on a much larger stage. Brad Edmondson tells the story with a journalist's eye for details, dramatic moments, and memorable characters. Among the dozens of figures Edmondson interviewed, his most important source was Jeff Furman, who helped Ben and Jerry write their first business plan in 1978 and has stayed involved ever since, serving as chairman of the board until 2010. It's a funny, sad, surprising, and ultimately hopeful story."--Publisher's description.

The Art of Rivalry Sebastian Smee 2016-08-16 Pulitzer Prize-winning art critic Sebastian Smee tells the fascinating story of four pairs of artists—Manet and Degas, Picasso and Matisse, Pollock and de Kooning, Freud and Bacon—whose fraught, competitive friendships spurred them to new creative heights. Rivalry is at the heart of some of the most famous and fruitful relationships in history. The Art of Rivalry follows eight celebrated artists, each linked to a counterpart by friendship, admiration, envy, and ambition. All eight are household names today. But to achieve what they did, each needed the influence of a contemporary—who was equally ambitious but possessed sharply contrasting strengths and weaknesses. Edouard Manet and Degas were close associates whose personal bond frayed after Degas painted a portrait of Manet and his wife. Henri Matisse and Pablo Picasso swapped paintings, ideas, and influences as they jostled for the support of collectors like Leo and Gertrude Stein and vied for the leadership of a new avant-garde. Jackson Pollock's uninhibited style of "action painting" triggered a breakthrough in the work of his older rival, Willem de Kooning. After Pollock's sudden death in a car crash, de Kooning assumed Pollock's mantle and became romantically involved with his late friend's mistress. Lucian Freud and Francis Bacon met in the early 1950s when Bacon was being hailed as Britain's most exciting new painter and Freud was working in relative obscurity. Their intense but asymmetrical friendship came to a head when Freud painted a portrait of Bacon which was later stolen. Each of these relationships culminated in an early flashpoint, a rupture in a bu intimacy that was both a betrayal and a trigger for great innovation. Writing with the same exuberant psychological insight that earned him a Pulitzer Prize for art criticism, Sebastian Smee explores here the art that coming into one's own as an artist—finding one's voice—almost always involves willfully breaking away from some intimate's expectations of who you are or ought to be. Praise for The Art of Rivalry "Gripping and Mr. Smee's skills as a critic are evident throughout. He is persuasive and vivid. . . . You leave this book nourished and hungry for more about the art, its creators and patrons, and the relationships that see it take ground for moments spent at the canvas."—The New York Times "With novella-like detail and incisiveness [Sebastian Smee] opens up the worlds of four pairs of renowned artists. . . . Each of his portraits is a biographical gem. . . . The Art of Rivalry is a pure, informative delight, written with canny authority."—The Boston Globe

Best Kept Secret Jeffrey Archer 2013-04-30 From #1 New York Times bestselling author Jeffrey Archer, Clifton Chronicles continues with Best Kept Secret. 1945, London. The vote in the House of Lords as to whether should inherit the Barrington family fortune has ended in a tie. The Lord Chancellor's deciding vote will cast a long shadow on the lives of Harry Clifton and Giles Barrington. Harry returns to America to promote his new novel, while his beloved Emma goes in search of the little girl who was found abandoned in her father's house on the night he was killed. When the general election is called, Giles Barrington has to defend his seat in the House of Commons and is horrified to discover who the Conservatives select to stand against him. But it is Sebastian Clifton, Harry and Emma's son, who ultimately influences his uncle's fate. In 1957, Sebastian wins a scholarship to Cambridge, and a new generation of the Clifton family marches onto the page. But after Sebastian is expelled from school, he unwittingly becomes caught up in an international art fraud involving a Rodin statue that is worth far more than the sum it raises at auction. Does he become a millionaire? Can he go to Cambridge? Is his life in danger? Best Kept Secret, the third volume in Jeffrey Archer's bestselling Clifton Chronicles, will answer all these questions but, once again, pose so many more.

Running Up That Hill Vassos Alexander 2018-03-08 SHORTLISTED FOR THE TELEGRAPH SPORTS & FITNESS BOOK OF THE YEAR AWARD 2019 RUNNING AWARDS 2019 - TOP BOOK
Running Up That Hill is a celebration of endurance running. Of running ridiculous distances – through cities, over mountains and across countries. Distances most people couldn't even imagine. But sports presenter Vassos Alexander is hooked! Why else would he run an ultra in Paris, backwards, having missed the start? Why head to Wales for the world's hardest mountain race with a badly sprained ankle? And why follow the footprints of some unforgiving, ancient footsteps and attempt the oldest and toughest footrace on earth, the 153-mile Spartathlon? There's joy to be found here. Really there is. Vassos recalls his own assaults on these gruelling races, along with ultra-running legends including Scott Jurek, Jasmin Paris, Kilian Jornet, Mimi Anderson and Dean Karnazes. They all testify to the transformative power of endurance running. It's about the astonishing highs that come from pushing your body to the limit. The confidence and peace when you challenge yourself and succeed. All told, this is a cracking tale of what keeps ultra-distance runners running mile after mile after mile.
